Rector Charges ND I Students on Discipline, Academic Excellence, Rewards Outstanding Performers

The Rector and Chief Academic Officer of Ikirun College of Health Technology, Salaudeen Oyewale has called on all ND I students to demonstrate greater commitment to their academic pursuits through active class participation, regular attendance, and serious preparation ahead of forthcoming examinations.

The charge was given during an interactive session with the ND I students where the Rector addressed issues relating to academic discipline, student conduct, and the importance of maintaining high standards within the college community.

In recognition of academic excellence and commitment to studies, the Rector also presented a cash award of ₦10,000 each to twenty-three (23) outstanding students who have distinguished themselves through remarkable academic performance and exemplary conduct. He noted that the gesture was aimed at motivating students to remain focused and to encourage others to strive for excellence in their studies.

While emphasizing the importance of seriousness in academics, the Rector advised the students to be good ambassadors of their families and the institution, stressing that their behaviour both within and outside the campus reflects on the reputation of the college.

As part of the engagement, the Rector also enlightened the students on some of the codes of conduct guiding behaviour in the college, urging them to adhere strictly to institutional rules and regulations in order to maintain a peaceful and conducive learning environment. He concluded by encouraging the students to take advantage of the opportunities provided by the institution to develop themselves academically and morally, assuring them of the college management's continued commitment to supporting their academic success.

IKIRUN HEALTH TECH HOLDS TWO-DAY CAPACITY BUILDING WORKSHOP ON DIGITAL RESULT PROCESSING

In its continued commitment to academic excellence, transparency, and digital transformation in educational administration, Ikirun College of Health Technology, Ikirun, Osun State, has successfully organized a two-day intensive workshop focused on the effective use of the institution's academic portal for result compilation and approval.

According to the College PRO, Mr. Adewuyi Simeon Adedotun, the workshop, which brought together academic staff and relevant administrative officers of the College, was facilitated by the management team of Adroissoft Limited, led by its Managing Director, Bola Saheed. The two-day workshop held on Thursday, 26th and Friday, 27th February, 2027 provided participants with practical knowledge and hands-on experience on digital result processing, computation accuracy, approval workflows, and efficient data management using the College portal system.

Speaking during the workshop, the Rector, Mr. Salaudeen Oyewale emphasized that the initiative forms part of ongoing institutional reforms aimed at strengthening efficiency, minimizing errors in result processing, and promoting accountability in academic record management. During the event, participants were guided through modern best practices designed to enhance speed, reliability, and integrity in students' academic result administration.

The Managing Director of Adroissoft Limited, Mr. Bola Saheed, commended the College Management for embracing technological innovation and prioritizing staff capacity development. He noted that effective utilization of digital platforms remains essential for institutions seeking to align with global standards in academic administration.

At the conclusion of the workshop, participants expressed appreciation to the College Management for providing the opportunity to enhance their technical competence, describing the training as timely, impactful, and essential for improving service delivery within the institution.

Ikirun College of Health Technology reaffirmed its resolve to continuously invest in staff development and digital solutions that support quality education and efficient institutional governance.

IKIRUN HEALTH TECH GREETES MUSLIMS ON RAMADAN, AS RECTOR URGES FAITHFUL TO EMBRACE PEACE, DISCIPLINE AND COMPASSION

Ikirun, Osun State — The Rector of Ikirun College of Health Technology, Mr. Salaudeen Oyewale has extended warm greetings to Muslim faithful within the College community and across the nation on the commencement of the holy month of Ramadan.

In a goodwill message issued by the Public Relations Officer, Adewuyi Simeon Adedotun on behalf of the Management, staff and students of the institution, the Rector described Ramadan as a sacred period of spiritual renewal, self-discipline, sacrifice and deeper devotion to Almighty Allah.

He urged Muslim faithful to use the holy month to pray fervently for peace, unity and progress within the College, Osun State and Nigeria at large. The Rector emphasized that the values of patience, tolerance, compassion and generosity which Ramadan teaches should be reflected in daily interactions both within and outside the campus.

"Ramadan is not only a season of fasting but a period of moral reflection, love for humanity and rededication to righteous living. I encourage our Muslim brothers and sisters to uphold these virtues and continue to be exemplary ambassadors of faith and good character," he stated.

The Rector further called on members of the College community to support one another during the fasting period and maintain an atmosphere of harmony and mutual respect.

He prayed that Allah grants all faithful the strength, good health and grace to complete the fast successfully and reap the abundant blessings of the season.

CHPRBN Commends Ikirun College of Health Technology in Accreditation Visit, Reaffirms Commitment to Professional Standards

Ikirun College of Health Technology has recorded a significant milestone following the successful accreditation exercise conducted by the Community Health Practitioners Registration Board of Nigeria (CHPRBN) on Tuesday, 10th February, 2026.

Speaking during the exercise, the team leader, Dr. Abdullahi Mohammed commended the management of Ikirun College of Health Technology for its remarkable investment in modern equipment, demonstration tools, models, and other required facilities. He noted that the institution has created an enabling environment for effective teaching and learning.

"We are impressed with what we have seen so far. The college has invested heavily in modern equipment and instructional materials that meet contemporary training standards. The calibre of staff engaged by the institution also reflects seriousness and commitment to quality education," Dr. Abdullahi said.

The team leader also lauded the recruitment of highly qualified academic and non-academic staff, stressing that the institution demonstrated a high level of preparedness and compliance with the standards of the Board. Earlier at the opening briefing, the Chief Academic Officer of the College, Mr. Salaudeen Oyewale, reiterated the institution's unwavering commitment to excellence, professionalism, and production of globally competitive health practitioners.

According to him, Ikirun College of Health Technology has, in recent years, invested massively in the procurement of state-of-the-art equipment for teaching and learning, as well as continuous staff development. > "Our vision is to build a centre of excellence in health technology. We have deliberately committed our resources to infrastructure, equipment, and human capacity development to ensure our students receive the best possible training," Mr. Oyewale stated.

He assured the accreditation team of the institution's readiness to sustain high academic standards and comply with all regulatory requirements of CHPRBN.

During the tour of facilities, the team interacted with management staff and lecturers, examined instructional materials, reviewed students' records, and assessed the adequacy of classrooms, laboratories, demonstration models, and clinical practice tools. The team expressed satisfaction with the organization, cleanliness, and functionality of the college environment.

A statement issued by the Public Relations Officer of the College, Adewuyi Simeon Adedotun appreciates the CHPRBN team for their guidance and professional assessment, describing the visit as a step forward in strengthening the institution's capacity to train competent community health practitioners for Nigeria's health sector.

The accreditation exercise is expected to further position Ikirun College of Health Technology as a reputable institution committed to excellence, innovation, and quality healthcare education in Nigeria.

LENT:

Ikirun Health Tech Felicitates Christians, Encourages Reflection And Charity

Ikirun, Osun State – The Management of Ikirun College of Health Technology, Ikirun, Osun State has extended warm felicitations to Christians within the institution and across the country as they observe the sacred season of Lent.

In a statement issued by the Public Relations Office, the College described Lent as a solemn and spiritually enriching period marked by reflection, repentance, sacrifice, and renewed devotion to God and humanity.

The institution noted that the season presents an opportunity for deep introspection and moral rejuvenation. Lent is a solemn period in the Christian calendar dedicated to reflection, repentance, sacrifice, and renewed commitment to faith and service. As an institution committed to nurturing not only professional competence but also moral integrity and compassion, we recognize the deep spiritual significance of this season to adherents of the Christian faith.

"The College urged Christian faithful to embrace the core values of love, compassion, humility, self-discipline, and charity, stressing that these virtues are essential not only to spiritual growth but also to the development of a peaceful and progressive society. It further encouraged prayers for the institution, Osun State, and Nigeria, particularly at a time when unity and collective responsibility remain paramount.

"We pray that this holy season strengthens faith, fosters harmony among all religious groups, and inspires collective commitment to the well-being of humanity." Ikirun College of Health Technology reaffirmed its commitment to fostering an inclusive academic environment where mutual respect, religious harmony, and shared values continue to thrive.

The Management wishes all Christians a spiritually fulfilling Lenten season.

Ikirun Health Tech Mourns Philanthropist and Spiritual Leader, Rev'd Prophet Beni Omoge

The Management, Governing Council, Staff and Students of Ikirun College of Health Technology, Ikirun, have received with deep sorrow and profound shock the news of the passing of His Eminence, Pastor Rev'd Prophet Beni Omoge, the esteemed Pastor and Supreme Head of the Celestial Church of Christ Worldwide.

A statement signed by the College Public Relations Officer, Mr. Adewuyi Simeon Adedotun noted that the late spiritual leader was not only a revered global religious figure but also a distinguished philanthropist and an unwavering pillar of support to our institution. The statement said, "his commitment to the advancement of education, particularly in the health sector, remains unparalleled.

Through his benevolence, hundreds of students of Ikirun College of Health Technology have and are still benefiting from life-changing scholarship opportunities in a bid to contribute meaningfully to healthcare delivery across Nigeria and beyond.

Since establishment of the College, Pastor Omoge stood firmly with us, offering moral guidance, financial assistance, and spiritual encouragement. His visionary leadership and passion for human capital development significantly strengthened our mission of producing competent and ethically grounded health professionals.

The College acknowledges with gratitude his enduring legacy of compassion, generosity, and service to humanity. His departure is not only a monumental loss to the family and Celestial Church of Christ Worldwide but also to the entire educational and healthcare community.

On behalf of the Rector, Governing Council and Management, we extend our heartfelt condolences to his immediate family, the leadership and members of the Celestial Church of Christ Worldwide, and all who are grieving this irreplaceable loss. We pray that God grants the Church divine comfort and the fortitude to bear this painful transition.

Though he has departed from this earthly realm, the indelible impact of his good works will continue to resonate within the walls of our institution and in the lives of the countless beneficiaries of his generosity." The statement added.
