

Ikirun Health Technology Intensifies Public Health Advocacy, Takes Anti-drug Abuse Campaign To Akinorun Grammar School

By Adewuyi Simeon Adedotun

As part of its unwavering commitment to community service, youth development, and public health promotion, Ikirun College of Health Technology has again demonstrated its leadership in health education through a sensitisation campaign against drug abuse organised for students of Akinorun Grammar School.

The outreach programme, carried out on Friday, 8th May, 2026 by students of Public Health Technology Department, focused on educating secondary school students on the dangers of substance abuse, the devastating effects of hard drugs, and the importance of resisting peer pressure among youths.

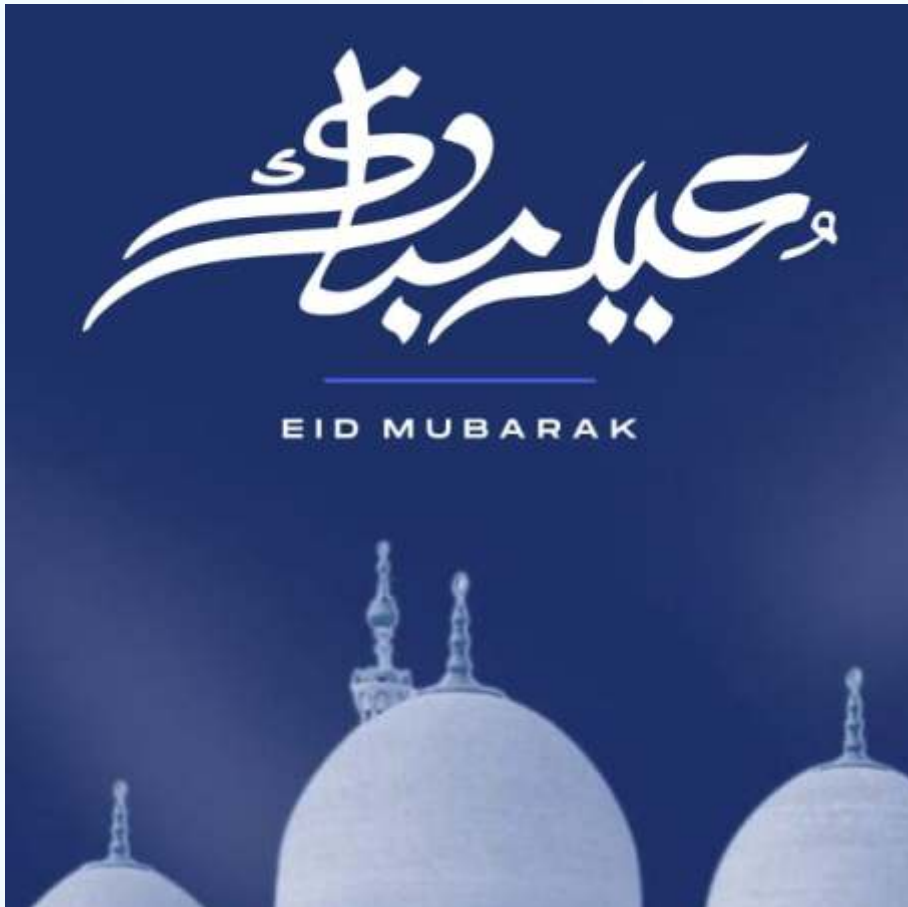

Represented by the Head of Department, Ms Moshudaht Babalola, the Rector/Chief Academic Officer of the college, Mr. Salaudeen Oyewale said the initiative was organised in response to the increasing rate of drug abuse among young people in society. According to him, "beyond academic training, Ikirun College of Health Technology remains committed to producing health professionals who are equipped with practical knowledge and a strong passion for community impact and public enlightenment."

"This institution believes that preventive health education remains one of the most effective ways of addressing social and health-related challenges facing the younger generation." During the sensitisation exercise, educational pamphlets containing useful information on drug abuse and its harmful consequences were distributed to students, while interactive sessions were also held to enlighten participants on making positive life decisions and avoiding harmful influences.

The programme equally featured reward presentations to two outstanding students who excelled during the interactive session, further encouraging active participation and learning among students.

The management of Ikirun College of Health Technology reaffirmed the institution's commitment to academic excellence, practical health training, and impactful community engagement aimed at building a healthier and more informed society. Since its inception, the institution has continued to distinguish itself as one of the leading health institutions dedicated to training competent healthcare professionals while contributing meaningfully to societal development through regular public health interventions and enlightenment campaigns.

EID-AL-ADHA: Ikirun Health Tech Management Celebrates Muslim Staff, Students By Oluwatimileyin Fasola

The Management of Ikirun College of Health Technology has extended warm greetings and heartfelt congratulations to Muslim staff, students, stakeholders, and the entire Muslim Ummah across the world on the occasion of this year's Eid-Al-Adha celebration.

A statement signed by the College Public Relations Officer noted that, "Eid-Al-Adha is a sacred season that symbolizes faith, sacrifice, devotion, love, and obedience to Almighty Allah, we thus urged Muslim faithfuls to continue to uphold the noble virtues associated with the celebration."

The management of Ikirun College of Health Technology rejoices with all our Muslim staff, students, stakeholders, and Muslims worldwide as they celebrate this year's Eid-Al-Adha. This special occasion reminds us all of the importance of sacrifice, humility, compassion, and unwavering faith in God." The statement reads."The institution noted that the contributions and dedication of its Muslim staff and students remain valuable to the steady growth and development of the college, appreciating their commitment towards academic excellence and institutional progress."

"We deeply appreciate the support, loyalty, and contributions of our stakeholders and members of the college community whose continuous commitment has contributed immensely to the advancement of the institution. Eid-Al-Adha presents another opportunity to strengthen the bonds of unity, love, and mutual respect among us." The management further urged Muslims to use the spiritual lessons of the season to promote peace, tolerance, and harmony within society while extending kindness to the less privileged.

"As we celebrate, we encourage everyone to continue praying for peace, progress, and stability in our nation and across the world. Let us also remember the need to support one another and promote values that unite humanity."

The Rector of Ikirun College of Health Technology, Mr. Salaudeen Oyewale, has extended warm felicitations to Muslim faithful across Nigeria and beyond on the occasion of this year's Eid-Al-Adha celebration. In a statement personally signed by the Rector, he described Eid-Al-Adha as a sacred period that symbolizes obedience, sacrifice, love, tolerance, and total submission to the will of Almighty Allah.

Oyewale urged Muslims to uphold the spiritual lessons of the festival by promoting peace, unity, compassion, and selflessness in their daily dealings, stressing that the values exemplified by Prophet Ibrahim remain essential for national growth and harmonious coexistence.

According to him, "Eid-Al-Adha reminds us of the virtues of faith, sacrifice, and humanity. As we celebrate, let us continue to pray for the peace, progress, and stability of our nation while extending love and support to one another, especially the less privileged.

"The Rector further encouraged members of the college community to celebrate responsibly and use the festive period to strengthen bonds of unity and mutual understanding irrespective of religious or ethnic differences.

He reaffirmed the commitment of the institution to academic excellence, moral discipline, and the continuous development of quality healthcare professionals capable of contributing meaningfully to society.

Oyewale also wished all Muslim faithful a peaceful, joyous, and spiritually rewarding Eid-Al-Adha celebration.

Eid Al Adha: Ikirun Health Tech Rector, Oyewale Felicitates Muslims, Calls for Peace, Selflessness

By Adewuyi Simeon Adedotun

Ikirun Health Tech Management Celebrates UNIOFFA Founder, Dr. Rasaq Oyewale on Birthday

The Management of Ikirun College of Health Technology has felicitated the Founder of the University of Offa, on the occasion of his birthday, describing him as a living legend, visionary leader, and an exceptional promoter of quality education.

In a congratulatory message signed by the institution's Public Relations Officer, Adewuyi Simeon Adedotun, the management praised Dr. Oyewale for his immense contributions to educational advancement, leadership development, and community growth.

According to the statement, the institution joined family members, associates, friends, and well-wishers in celebrating a man whose commitment to excellence has continued to inspire and transform lives across different sectors. "On behalf of the Management, Staff, Students, and entire Community of Ikirun College of Health Technology, we heartily felicitate with you on the occasion of your birthday," the statement read.

The management further described Dr. Oyewale as a rare gem whose impactful initiatives and unwavering dedication to educational development have empowered countless individuals and created opportunities for a brighter future. "Your remarkable contributions to the advancement of education, leadership, and community development stand as a shining example of dedication, vision, and selfless service," the statement added.

While praying for more fruitful years ahead, the institution wished the celebrant sound health, renewed strength, wisdom, peace, joy, and greater accomplishments in all his endeavours. The statement concluded by describing the University of Offa founder as "a builder of destinies and a pride to humanity," while extending warm congratulations and prayers for long life and prosperity.

Dr. Oyewale is widely regarded as one of the notable education promoters in Nigeria, particularly for his contributions toward expanding access to quality tertiary education through the establishment of the University of Offa.

Ikirun Health Tech Appoints Dorcas Oluwaseun as Acting HOD, Public Health Technology Department

The Management of Ikirun College of Health Technology has announced the appointment of Ms. Dorcas Oluwaseun as the Acting Head of the Public Health Technology Department as part of efforts aimed at strengthening academic leadership and enhancing administrative efficiency within the institution.

The appointment, approved by the Rector and Chief Academic Officer of the college, is expected to further reposition the department for improved coordination, effective academic service delivery, and sustained professional excellence.

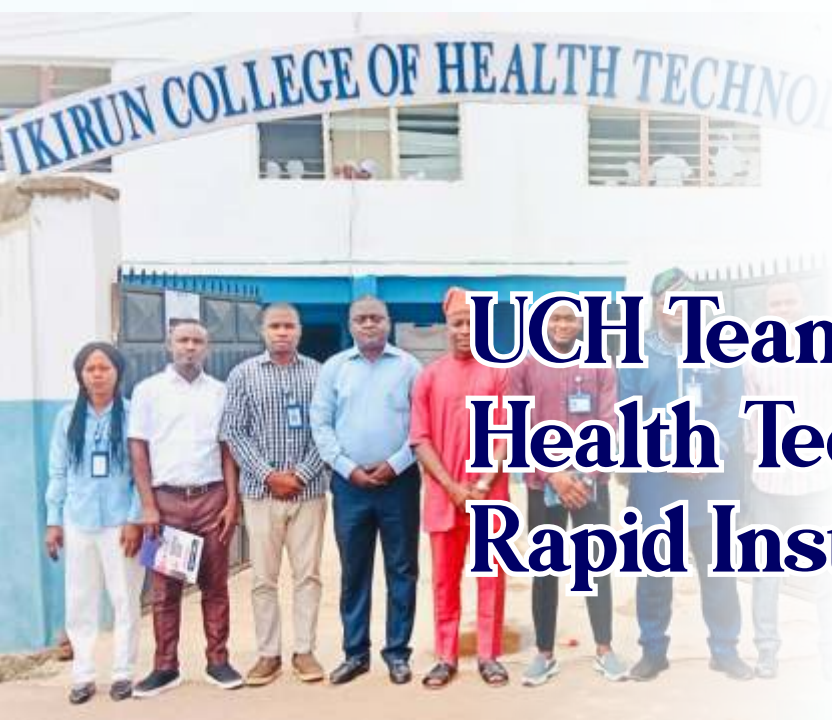

This was disclosed in a statement issued by the institution's Public Relations Officer, Adewuyi Simeon Adedotun, who noted that the college remains committed to promoting quality health education and institutional development through capable leadership and innovative academic administration.

According to the statement, the management expressed confidence in the ability of Ms. Dorcas Oluwaseun to provide purposeful leadership, professionalism, and dedication in line with the institution's vision and standards. The college also reiterated its determination to continue building a dynamic academic environment that encourages innovation, excellence, and continuous growth in health education.

Members of the college community were urged to extend their maximum cooperation and support to the newly appointed acting Head of Department as she assumes the responsibilities of the office.

The management congratulated Ms. Oluwaseun on her appointment and wished her a successful and impactful tenure.

UCH Team Commends Ikirun Health Tech Over Rapid Institutional Growth

A delegation from the Primary Healthcare Tutors Course of the has applauded the Management of Ikirun College of Health Technology for the institution's remarkable growth and commitment to quality health education within a short period of establishment. The team made the commendation during an official working visit and inspection to the College on Monday, May 18, 2026, as part of efforts aimed at strengthening institutional collaboration and advancing healthcare education.

The delegation was led by Mr. Fatokunbi Abiodun G., Head of the Primary Health Care Tutors Programme. Other members of the team included Mr. Akintola J.O., immediate past Registry Officer of the institution, and Mr. Kehinde Akintunde.

Welcoming the visitors on behalf of the Rector and Chief Academic Officer of the College, the College Registrar, Mr. Abdullahi Adeniyi, reaffirmed the institution's commitment to academic excellence through continuous investment in modern facilities, teaching resources, and a conducive learning environment.

He also stressed the College's readiness to embrace productive partnerships and collaborations capable of advancing its academic and professional objectives. Speaking during the visit, Mr. Fatokunbi described the level of progress achieved by the College within just two years as highly impressive and commendable. According to him, the institution has demonstrated visionary leadership through strategic investments in healthcare training, quality infrastructure, and increasing student enrolment. "I can say this boldly, within just two years, this institution's pace of development demonstrates visionary leadership and a clear commitment to producing competent health professionals," he stated.

The delegation was later conducted round key academic and healthcare facilities within the institution, including lecture rooms, laboratories, the College Clinic, demonstration room, and other academic units.

The visitors particularly expressed admiration for the College's demonstration room, describing the available practical learning facilities and modern equipment as clear evidence of the Management's dedication to quality health training. "I am totally amazed. Within two years, you have these? These are facilities worth millions of naira. I am honestly speechless. All I will say is well done as I pray that this institution grows immensely," the team lead added.

The delegation subsequently commended the College for its rapid emergence as a growing centre of excellence in health technology education and encouraged the Management to sustain the institution's high standards across all operational areas. The statement was signed by Adewuyi Simeon Adedotun, Public Relations Officer of Ikirun College of Health Technology.